

The International Buyer's Guide to Importing Chinese Vehicles

Everything you need to know before purchasing a vehicle from China.

About this edition

China changed the rules governing vehicle exports twice in late 2025. Both changes took effect on 1 January 2026, and both affect what an international buyer can purchase, how long it takes, and what documentation the shipment requires.

This edition has been rewritten to reflect those rules. The two that matter most are set out overleaf, and both are explained in full in Chapter 3.

01 Export licensing for battery electric passenger vehicles

Announced 26 September 2025. In force since 1 January 2026.

02 The 180-day rule for used-vehicle exports

Issued 14 November 2025. In force since 1 January 2026.

IMPORTANT

This guide is general information, not legal, tax or customs advice. Chinese export regulations and the import regulations of your own country change, sometimes at short notice. Confirm current requirements with your exporter, your customs broker and your national authority before you commit funds. CCH Automobile confirms the applicable rules for your specific vehicle and destination before accepting a deposit.

WHAT CHANGED

Two rules. Both in force since 1 January 2026.

RULE ONE • ANNOUNCED 26 SEPTEMBER 2025

Export licensing for battery electric passenger vehicles

Announced by the Ministry of Commerce, the Ministry of Industry and Information Technology, the General Administration of Customs and the State Administration for Market Regulation.

RULE TWO • ISSUED 14 NOVEMBER 2025

The 180-day rule for used-vehicle exports

Set out in the Notice on Further Strengthening the Management of Used Car Exports, issued by the Ministry of Commerce, the Ministry of Industry and Information Technology, the Ministry of Public Security and the General Administration of Customs.

What buying a vehicle from China actually involves

China builds more vehicles than any other country. Its manufacturers now compete at the front of the global market in electric vehicles, plug-in hybrids, premium SUVs and luxury sedans. They compete on technology, on safety, and on price.

Buyers in Africa, the Middle East, Europe, Latin America, Central Asia, Southeast Asia and Oceania are choosing them in growing numbers.

Buying one for export is a different transaction from buying one inside China. A domestic purchase ends when the keys change hands.

An export purchase adds export eligibility, export licensing, documentation, customs clearance at both ends, ocean freight, and compliance with the rules of the country the vehicle is going to. Each stage has its own cost and its own timeline.

Buyers who understand the stages before they pay a deposit move faster and spend less than buyers who learn them in transit.

That is what this guide is for. It explains how the export process works, stage by stage, and what to expect at each one.

What you'll learn

- 01 How international vehicle exports work, from selection to arrival
 - 02 The difference between a domestic-market vehicle and an export-ready one
 - 03 Which vehicles can leave China immediately, and which cannot
 - 04 Why export prices differ from local Chinese prices
 - 05 The mistakes that cost first-time buyers the most money
 - 06 How CCH Automobile manages the process from China to your port

Who this guide is for

Individual buyers, dealerships, fleet managers and government buyers alike. The process is the same for all of them, and so is the information you need before you commit money to it.

How to read it

The process in these pages is the one we run every week. Read it in order the first time. After that, use it as a reference.

Who we are

CCH Automobile exports new and cleanly used Chinese vehicles to buyers worldwide.

Cleanly used means low-mileage vehicles bought from their first owner, where the vehicle history can be verified. New vehicles come through manufacturers and authorised export channels.

We handle selection, inspection, export documentation and shipping. Our aim is straightforward: we help buyers anywhere in the world import a Chinese vehicle without guesswork.

A MESSAGE TO OUR READERS

Thank you for considering CCH Automobile. Every vehicle we handle is sourced through a verified channel, inspected before it leaves China, and tracked until it reaches your port. That is the standard this guide describes, and it is the standard we hold ourselves to.

02

Understanding the Chinese vehicle market

China is the world's largest vehicle producer and the global leader in electric vehicle manufacturing.

CHINA VEHICLE OUTPUT AND EXPORT, 2025

34.53 M

VEHICLES
PRODUCED

7.10 M

VEHICLES EXPORTED
+21% YEAR ON YEAR

2.62 M

NEV EXPORTS
DOUBLED YEAR ON YEAR

2025 was a third consecutive year as the world's largest vehicle exporter. For an international buyer, that scale is the opportunity. It is also the source of most of the confusion.

One vehicle, two markets

The most common misunderstanding is that any vehicle advertised in China can be bought and shipped out of it. China's domestic market and its export market run on different rules, different pricing and different paperwork. Knowing which one you are buying in is the first decision you make, whether or not you realise you are making it.

A vehicle advertised in China is usually aimed at one of two buyers.

THE DOMESTIC BUYER

Lives in China. The price they see includes local promotions, local financing offers and delivery terms written for someone with a Chinese address and a Chinese licence plate ahead of them.

THE EXPORT BUYER

Is shipping the vehicle out. That purchase requires export eligibility, an export licence, export documentation, customs processing, ocean freight and compliance with the import rules of the destination country. None of it is included in a domestic advertisement, and none of it is optional.

The vehicle can be identical.
The transaction is not.

What a domestic advertisement does not tell you

You find a vehicle online, the price looks strong, and the natural assumption is that you can buy it on those terms. What the listing does not confirm is any of the following.

- 01 Whether the vehicle is eligible for export at all
 - 02 Whether the seller holds export qualification
 - 03 Whether that price applies to an overseas buyer
 - 04 Whether export documentation is included
 - 05 Whether shipping has been arranged
 - 06 Whether the vehicle meets the import requirements of your country

THE EXPENSIVE VERSION OF THIS MISTAKE

Any one of those can stop a purchase after money has moved. The most expensive version is the one that ends in storage charges: a vehicle that is paid for and sitting in China because no export licence can be issued for it, or sitting at your destination port because it does not meet a requirement nobody checked.

Checking these things before you commit costs you a conversation. Discovering them afterwards costs considerably more.

What China offers

The selection is among the widest in the world, and for most destinations the price advantage is real.

Battery electric vehicles	Plug-in hybrids	Conventional hybrids
SUVs	Luxury sedans and pickups	Commercial vehicles

THE HALF THAT DECIDES EVERYTHING

Finding the right vehicle is the easier half of the job. Buying it through a route that gets it legally out of China and legally into your country is the half that decides whether the purchase works.

How CCH Automobile helps

We buy in the export market every week, so we know which vehicles can leave, what documentation each one needs, and what your country's customs will ask for when it arrives. Our job is to tell you that before you pay, not after.

03

Export eligibility and the rules that govern it

One of the biggest misconceptions about buying a vehicle from China is that every car must wait six months before it can be exported. That is not true — but the rule it misremembers is real, and since 1 January 2026 it has teeth.

Whether a vehicle can be exported, and how quickly, depends on four things

01

Whether it is being exported as a new vehicle or a used vehicle

02

The date it was first registered in China, if it was registered at all

03

Its powertrain — battery electric vehicles are licensed separately

04

Whether it is purchased through an approved export channel, from an exporter holding current export qualification

Every vehicle needs an export licence

Automobiles, including complete knock-down kits, and their chassis appear on China's Catalogue of Goods Subject to Export Licence Administration. An export licence must be issued before the vehicle clears customs. There is no route around this.

Two separate things are required, and buyers often confuse them.

Export qualification

GRANTED TO THE COMPANY

The exporting company must hold current qualification to export vehicles, applied for annually through the Ministry of Commerce's automobile and motorcycle export licence application system. Qualification is granted to the company, not the vehicle.

Export licence

ISSUED PER SHIPMENT

Once qualified, the exporter applies for a licence covering the specific vehicles under a specific contract, before each shipment.

A seller who can show you a car is not necessarily a seller who can export it. Ask which company will appear on the export licence, and confirm that it is the same company named in your sales contract and on the invoice you are paying.

ASK DIRECTLY

"Which company holds the export qualification for this vehicle, and is that the company I am paying?"

A legitimate exporter answers this without hesitation.

The 180-day rule

The 180-day rule applies to vehicles exported through the used-vehicle channel. It does not apply to new vehicles exported through a manufacturer's approved export channel.

SOURCE INSTRUMENT

Notice on Further Strengthening the Management of Used Car Exports — issued on 14 November 2025 by the Ministry of Commerce, the Ministry of Industry and Information Technology, the Ministry of Public Security and the General Administration of Customs. In force since 1 January 2026.

DAYS SINCE FIRST REGISTRATION IN CHINA

WITHIN 180 DAYS

< 180

Must be accompanied by an After-Sales Service Confirmation Letter issued by the vehicle's manufacturer. Without it, no export licence will be issued.

BEYOND 180 DAYS

> 180

The requirement does not apply.

What the letter must state

- 01 The destination country
 - 02 The vehicle's details
 - 03 The manufacturer's after-sales service network in that country
 - 04 And it must carry the manufacturer's official seal

Why the rule exists

The rule closes what the Chinese market calls the "zero-mileage used car" loophole: brand-new vehicles briefly registered in China so they could be exported through used-vehicle channels, bypassing the manufacturer's distribution rules and, more to the point, its warranty and service obligations. It applies equally to new energy vehicles and conventional fuel vehicles.

The integrity assessment system

The same notice introduced an integrity assessment system for exporters. Companies that repeatedly submit information which does not match the vehicle registration record can be publicly identified, and can have their access to export licences restricted or withdrawn.

A nearly new vehicle is now harder to export and easier to verify — and the manufacturer has to acknowledge that it will support the car in your country.

Buying through the right export channel

Many new vehicles can be exported without waiting when they are purchased through the manufacturer's approved export channel, because that channel carries the manufacturer's authorisation from the outset.

NEW VEHICLE • APPROVED CHANNEL

Manufacturer authorisation carried from the outset. The 180-day rule does not apply.

USED-VEHICLE CHANNEL

Subject to the 180-day rule, and to the After-Sales Service Confirmation Letter where the vehicle was registered within that window.

TWO IDENTICAL CARS, TWO TIMELINES

This is why two identical vehicles can have completely different export timelines, even parked side by side. The difference is not the car. It is the channel it was bought through.

Battery electric vehicles

Since 1 January 2026, battery electric passenger vehicles are subject to their own export licence management regime, announced on 26 September 2025 by the Ministry of Commerce, the Ministry of Industry and Information Technology, the General Administration of Customs and the State Administration for Market Regulation.

Scope	Passenger vehicles powered solely by an electric motor and carrying a Vehicle Identification Number.
--------------	--

Customs commodity code	8703801090
-------------------------------	-------------------

Exporter qualification	Held under the 2012 notice governing the export of automobile and motorcycle products.
-------------------------------	--

Customs inspection	Follows the Catalogue of Import and Export Commodities Subject to Compulsory Inspection.
---------------------------	--

WHAT THIS MEANS FOR YOU

Not every exporter can ship you a battery electric vehicle. The company must be separately qualified for it.

This is worth confirming in writing before any deposit on an EV.

Plug-in hybrids and conventional hybrids

Plug-in hybrids and conventional hybrids are not covered by the battery-electric licensing regime, because they are not powered solely by an electric motor.

They remain subject to the general export licence requirement for automobiles and, if exported through the used-vehicle channel, to the 180-day rule.

Procedures can still vary by manufacturer and by destination country. Confirm the specific route for the specific model.

Why this matters

Before purchasing any vehicle, confirm three things.

- 01 Whether the vehicle is eligible for export at all
- 02 Whether manufacturer approval or an After-Sales Service Confirmation Letter is required
- 03 The realistic export timeline, including licence processing

OUR STANDARD

At CCH Automobile we verify all three before accepting a deposit, so clients know exactly when their vehicle can ship and are not surprised by a delay that was predictable from the first day.

04

Domestic prices vs. export prices

"I saw this car online for a lower price. Why is your price different?"

THE QUESTION WE ARE ASKED MOST OFTEN

The answer is that you are comparing two different markets.

Domestic prices are for buyers in China

The prices advertised on Chinese websites are meant for people buying and using the vehicle in China. They are built on:

- 01 Chinese domestic sales terms
 - 02 Local registration requirements
 - 03 Dealer promotions and incentives
 - 04 Chinese taxes and financing offers

These are not export prices, and they are generally not available to overseas buyers.

Export prices are different

An export price is calculated for an international buyer and includes the costs required to legally export the vehicle.

Depending on the shipment, that may include:

- | | |
|----|------------------------------------|
| 01 | Export documentation |
| 02 | Export licence processing |
| 03 | Inland transportation to the port |
| 04 | Port handling charges |
| 05 | Ocean freight, if applicable |
| 06 | Marine insurance, if requested |
| 07 | Export management and coordination |

NOT MEASURING THE SAME THING

An export price should never be compared directly with a price advertised for the Chinese domestic market.

Shipping terms: read them before you compare

When you request a quotation, check which Incoterm it is written on. Two quotes for the same vehicle can differ by thousands of dollars purely because one includes freight and the other does not.

	VEHICLE	TO PORT + LOADING	OCEAN FREIGHT	INSURANCE
EXW	■	■	■	■
FOB	■	■	■	■
CFR	■	■	■	■
CIF	■	■	■	■

EXW Ex Works

The vehicle only, collected in China. Everything else is yours to arrange.

FOB Free on Board

The vehicle plus delivery to the departure port in China and loading. International shipping is arranged separately.

CFR Cost and Freight

The vehicle plus ocean freight to your destination port. Insurance is not included.

CIF Cost, Insurance & Freight

The vehicle, ocean freight and marine insurance to your destination port.

Comparing an FOB quote against a CIF quote is not comparing prices. It is comparing two different scopes of work.

Import costs in your country

After the vehicle arrives, your country may charge:

- | | |
|----|---|
| 01 | Import duties |
| 02 | VAT or other consumption taxes |
| 03 | Customs clearance fees |
| 04 | Registration fees |
| 05 | Port storage and demurrage, if clearance is delayed |
| 06 | Local compliance or inspection costs |

These are determined by your local authorities and are separate from the export price. Budget for them before you buy, not after the vessel arrives.

OUR COMMITMENT

At CCH Automobile we provide itemised quotations, and we state clearly whether a quotation is EXW, FOB, CFR or CIF — so you can compare like with like.

05

Three questions to answer before you pay

Finding a vehicle online is easy. Exporting it legally, safely and smoothly is where experience matters.

01 Can the vehicle be exported?

Not every vehicle can be exported immediately, and since January 2026 the documentation threshold is higher than it used to be. Eligibility depends on the manufacturer's export policy, whether the vehicle is new or used, its registration status and date, its powertrain, and the export channel it is bought through.

At CCH Automobile we verify export eligibility before asking a client for a deposit.

02 Who is handling the export?

Selling a car in China and exporting a car internationally are two different businesses. A local dealer may be able to sell you a vehicle, but may not hold export qualification, and may have no experience of export documentation, customs procedures, international shipping or overseas customer support.

Working with a qualified, experienced exporter avoids delays that are expensive precisely because they happen after your money has moved.

Will your country allow the vehicle?

QUESTION THREE

Every country has its own import regulations. Before you buy, confirm:

Steering position

Chinese vehicles are built left-hand drive for the domestic market. If your country drives on the left, you need a model produced in right-hand drive — and not every Chinese model is.

Vehicle age limits

Many markets cap the age of imported used vehicles, measured from first registration or from manufacture. The two dates are not the same, and which one your customs authority uses matters.

Emissions and safety standards

Confirm which standard your country enforces, and that the model meets it.

Conformity assessment

Many countries operate pre-shipment conformity programmes — commonly called PVoC or CoC schemes — requiring inspection and a certificate issued before the vehicle leaves China. These cannot be obtained retroactively once the vessel has sailed.

Import duties and taxes

Calculate them before you commit, not after.

Registration requirements

Including any documents your licensing authority needs that must originate in China.

The most costly import problems are almost always compliance problems that could have been identified in a five-minute conversation before the deposit.

06

The CCH Automobile export process

Buying a vehicle from China is straightforward when the process is handled correctly. We guide clients through every stage.

01 Tell us what you need

Preferred brand and model. New or cleanly used. Budget. Destination country and port. Intended use — personal, business, resale or fleet.

Your destination matters from the first conversation, because it determines steering position, compliance requirements, duties and which models are worth considering at all.

02 Vehicle selection

We source suitable vehicles through our network. New vehicles come directly from manufacturers and approved export channels. Cleanly used vehicles come from verified first owners with traceable history.

Before you proceed, we confirm availability, exact specification, production or delivery timeline, export eligibility, and the estimated shipping schedule.

03

Vehicle inspection

FOR USED VEHICLES

Exterior and paint condition
Interior condition
Mechanical inspection
Mileage verification
Battery state of health, for EVs and hybrids
Road test where applicable

FOR NEW VEHICLES

Vehicle specification and factory configuration
VIN verification
Overall condition before shipment

THE ACTUAL VEHICLE, NOT THE MODEL

You receive photographs, video and an inspection report for the actual vehicle you are purchasing — not a stock image of the model.

04

Export documentation

We prepare and coordinate the documentation required by the Chinese authorities. This typically includes:

- | | |
|----|----------------|
| 01 | Export licence |
|----|----------------|
- | | |
|----|--------------------|
| 02 | Commercial invoice |
|----|--------------------|
-
- | | |
|----|----------------|
| 03 | Sales contract |
|----|----------------|
- | | |
|----|--------------|
| 04 | Packing list |
|----|--------------|
- | | |
|----|---|
| 05 | Vehicle inspection report, where required |
|----|---|
- | | |
|----|---|
| 06 | After-Sales Service Confirmation Letter, where the 180-day rule applies |
|----|---|
- | | |
|----|----------------|
| 07 | Bill of Lading |
|----|----------------|
- | | |
|----|--|
| 08 | Certificate of Origin, when applicable |
|----|--|
- | | |
|----|---|
| 09 | Conformity certificate, where your country requires one |
|----|---|

USED VEHICLES

All required transfer and deregistration procedures are completed before export, so the vehicle can be legally imported and registered at destination.

05

Shipping

Once documentation is complete, the vehicle ships by the most suitable method.

Container shipping

Maximum protection in transit. Suited to high-value vehicles and to destinations with limited RoRo service.

RoRo roll-on / roll-off

More economical for many destinations. Often faster on major international routes.

Before departure you receive the shipping booking confirmation, vessel information, Bill of Lading and tracking details.

06

Arrival and import clearance

Import clearance is completed by you or your appointed clearing agent, according to your country's regulations. Before the vessel arrives, we provide the full set of shipping and export documents your agent needs.

Where additional documents are required for your market, we arrange them before shipment wherever it is possible to do so — which, for conformity certificates, it must be.

THE CCH AUTOMOBILE DIFFERENCE

Selection, inspection, documentation, shipping and delivery support — managed as one process, with one point of contact.

07

Common mistakes international buyers make

Most of what goes wrong for first-time buyers is avoidable, and it tends to go wrong in the same seven ways.

MISTAKE ONE

Comparing domestic prices with export prices

Prices advertised on Chinese websites are for the local market and are not export prices. Always compare export quotations on the same terms — FOB against FOB, CIF against CIF.

MISTAKE TWO

Choosing the cheapest quote

The lowest price is rarely the complete price. A cheap quotation often excludes inspection, export documentation, freight, insurance or after-sales support, and those costs do not disappear — they arrive later. Ask for an itemised quotation showing exactly what is included and what is not.

MISTAKE THREE

Assuming every vehicle can be exported

Export eligibility depends on registration status and date, manufacturer export policy, powertrain and export channel. A nearly new used vehicle now requires a manufacturer's After-Sales Service Confirmation Letter. Confirm eligibility before any payment.

Verification and payment

MISTAKE FOUR

Paying before verifying the vehicle

Before paying, request:

- VIN (Vehicle Identification Number)
- Full specification
- Mileage, for used vehicles
- First registration date
- Battery state of health report, for EVs and hybrids
- Recent photographs and video of the actual vehicle, showing the VIN

This confirms you are buying the exact vehicle you think you are buying.

MISTAKE FIVE

Paying the wrong account

Always pay the company stated in your sales contract. Before transferring funds, confirm that the company name matches the contract, that the bank account belongs to that company, and that the company is authorised to handle your export.

Never send payment to a personal account. There is no legitimate export transaction that requires it.

Paperwork and compliance

MISTAKE SIX

Overlooking export documentation

A shipment succeeds or fails on its paperwork. Errors in export documentation cause delays, additional charges and customs problems at the destination — and under the 2026 rules, information submitted in an export application must match the vehicle registration record exactly.

MISTAKE SEVEN

Ignoring your country's import requirements

Confirm duties and taxes, age restrictions, emissions and safety requirements, steering position rules, and any required inspections or certifications before you purchase. Failure to meet them results in customs delays and storage charges that accumulate daily.

HOW CCH AUTOMOBILE HELPS

Before accepting a deposit, we verify the vehicle, confirm export eligibility, explain all costs, prepare the required export documents and set out the timeline. If a vehicle cannot be exported, we say so before any payment is made.

Honest advice at the beginning saves money later.

Buying an electric vehicle for your market

Electric and plug-in hybrid vehicles are the fastest-growing part of China's vehicle exports. They are also the category where the gap between a good purchase and a difficult one is widest, because an EV depends on infrastructure and service in a way a combustion vehicle does not.

Five things to establish before you commit.

01 Charging compatibility

China uses its own national charging standard. Vehicles built for the Chinese domestic market may not match the connectors and protocols used in your country, and public charging networks vary widely by region. Confirm the charging standard on the specific vehicle, and confirm what adapters or home charging equipment you will need. Where possible, buy a version built for export to your region.

02 Battery state of health

For any used EV, the battery is the single largest component of the vehicle's value. Ask for a state-of-health reading and a diagnostic report, not a verbal assurance. We include this in our inspection reports as standard.

Service, parts and software

03 Warranty and service in your country

The 180-day rule now requires manufacturers to confirm their after-sales network in the destination country for nearly new used exports — a useful signal in itself.

But for any EV, establish who will service it locally, whether the brand has an authorised presence in your market, and whether high-voltage-qualified technicians are available.

04 Parts availability

Ask how long a replacement part typically takes to arrive and what it costs. For a newly launched brand in a new market, this is often the deciding factor in ownership cost.

05 Software and connectivity

Many Chinese EVs rely on connected services, over-the-air updates and app control. Confirm which functions depend on a Chinese network connection and which will work in your country, and whether the interface is available in a language your drivers read.

09

Before you buy

Buying a vehicle from China is a significant investment. Before making any payment, take a few minutes to confirm the details that matter most.

Check after-sales support

Before choosing a vehicle, find out what support exists in your country. Ask whether there is a dealer or service centre for the brand, whether spare parts are readily available, how long replacement parts take to order, and — for EVs — whether qualified technicians and charging facilities exist near you.

A vehicle with good local support is easier and less expensive to own over its whole life.

Choose the right vehicle for your market

The right vehicle depends on where it will be used. Road conditions, climate, fuel quality, charging infrastructure, parts availability and local regulations all influence which model is the right choice.

OUR POSITION

Our team recommends vehicles based on your country's conditions and requirements, not on what happens to be popular in China.

Confirm these seven things before paying

- 01 The vehicle's origin, VIN and registration details
 - 02 That it is eligible for export, and on what timeline
 - 03 Whether an After - Sales Service Confirmation Letter is required, and who is obtaining it
 - 04 What the quotation includes — EXW, FOB, CFR or CIF
 - 05 Which documents you will receive, and when
 - 06 The shipping method, destination port and estimated transit time
 - 07 The company you are paying, and that its official account matches your contract

THE TEST

A professional exporter can answer all seven clearly, in writing, before asking for a deposit.

Glossary of trade and shipping terms

Bill of Lading B/L	The shipping document issued by the carrier. It is the title document for the vehicle — without it, your agent cannot take delivery.
Certificate of Origin	Confirms where the vehicle was manufactured. Often required for preferential duty rates.
CFR Cost and Freight	Price includes the vehicle and ocean freight to your port. Insurance excluded.
CIF Cost, Insurance and Freight	Price includes the vehicle, ocean freight and marine insurance to your port.
CoC / PVoC	Certificate of Conformity and Pre-Export Verification of Conformity: pre-shipment inspection programmes operated by many importing countries. Must be arranged before shipment.
Demurrage	Daily charges incurred when a container or vehicle stays at the destination port beyond the free period.
EXW Ex Works	Price covers the vehicle only, collected in China.
FOB Free on Board	Price includes the vehicle delivered to and loaded at the Chinese port of departure.

Glossary continued

Export licence	The permit issued by Chinese authorities allowing a specific vehicle to leave China.
Export qualification	The annual authorisation a company must hold in order to apply for export licences at all.
NEV New Energy Vehicle	Chinese classification covering battery electric, plug-in hybrid and fuel cell vehicles.
RoRo Roll-on / Roll-off	Shipping method in which vehicles are driven onto and off the vessel.
State of health SoH	A measure of a battery's remaining capacity against its original capacity.
VIN	Vehicle Identification Number — the unique 17-character identifier for an individual vehicle.

A NOTE ON TERMS

Incoterms describe who pays for what and where risk passes. When you compare quotations, the term matters as much as the number. Ask every exporter to quote on the same one.

About CCH Automobile

CCH Automobile specialises in exporting brand - new and cleanly used Chinese vehicles to customers around the world.

We source new vehicles directly from manufacturers and approved export channels, and cleanly used vehicles from verified first owners with traceable histories.
